To whom it may concern,

I am pleased to provide a recommendation for Mr. Andrew "Andy" Smith. I have known Andy personally and professionally for many years. Frankly, he is one of the most outstanding educators I have had the privilege to work with in my many years in the learning and development profession. I worked with Andy for two years in the training division of a large corporation and I also have recruited him to teach online classes with my previous employer, Granite State College. Accordingly, I can wholeheartedly recommend him for this position. Among his many outstanding qualities, Andy has impressed me with his professionalism, ability to engage learners, the willingness to always go the extra mile and most remarkably, his passion for teaching.

Professionalism: Andy is the consummate professional at all times and always conducts himself with the utmost decorum and integrity. I have personally worked on many projects with Andy where the effects of stressful workloads and deadlines resulted in less than flattering actions from everyone involved...except for Andy. He always maintains a calm demeanor, and is able to remain courteous and upbeat under the most rigorous of situations.

Engaging: Andy has the remarkable ability of engaging the most distant and detached learner. Combined with his excellent preparation and understanding of the subject matter, I have seen Andy connect with many a learner considered a lost cause and through his unrelenting, positive attitude, turned the situation into a positive learning experience for the individual.

Goes the extra mile: Andy does not occasionally go the extra mile: its part of who he is. Andy always and routinely goes the extra mile to ensure the project, the learning, and/or the support for the learner or colleague leads to success.

Passion: Perhaps most impressive is Andy's strong passion for teaching whether in a corporate training, a college undergraduate course, or working with secondary school learners. His enthusiasm and devotion to teaching resonates loudly and unmistakably in all his work, his actions and his teaching.

Accordingly, I highly recommend Andy to any organization dedicated to excellence in education. I will be happy to answer any specific questions you have regarding the capabilities of this outstanding individual.
